TEMPORARY HIGH SCHOOL 'SHACKS' ONLY ANSWER TO DEFEAT OF $180,000 BONDS

Eminent Engineer to Outline Water Needs

GATHERING ON MONDAY IS ANNOUNCED

Chamber Sponsors Talk
By Thomas H. Means
At Noon Session

GROUP WILL DECIDE

Members to Take Stand
On Policy Regarding Flood Control Plan

"No flood control—no water. No water—no agriculture. No agriculture—no business."

In these words the Santa Ana chamber of commerce today introduced a letter to its members inviting them to hear Thomas H. Means, prominent engineer, explain the Orange county water situation at a meeting in the Green Cat cafe next Monday noon.

At this session the members are to express themselves in regard to the $6,620,000 bond issue on which the people will vote Oct. 4.

Means is authority. Mr. Means was on the board of consulting engineers for the former water program on which the people voted in 1929. He is regarded not only as an authority on the local water situation but also as a nationally known engineer, the letter explains.

After the slogan showing the need for water, the letter says, "That's almost the story in brief of the Orange county flood control and water situation. Business people of Santa Ana, as well as the balance of the county, have never been faced with anything more critical. The extreme overdrift on the basin continues a few more years, it will be too late, so technicians say, to make a recovery."

Many Special Guests
Special guests at the meeting will be the Santa Ana city council, the board of supervisors, Farm Advisor Harold Wahlberg, Agricultural Commissioner D. W. Tubbs, J. W. Crill, farm bureau president; Roland D. Flaherty, farm bureau secretary; Harry Welch, member of the flood control campaign organization; and George Kellogg, president of the associated chambers of commerce. "Not everyone is for the bond issue," the letter says. "If you are against it, or undecided, please come and listen to the story in the authoritative way in which Mr. Means will give it. You can still be against it after the meeting, but perchance when you learn the facts you may feel differently. You owe it to the protection of your business, or property values to make no mistake in this most important of all issues facing Orange county."

FAR EAST TOLL PUT AT 230

TOKYO, Sept. 27. (AP)—The government today listed 230 dead, 195 missing and feared dead, and 84 injured as the result of typhoons and torrential rains in Japan.

Newspaper compilations, however, indicated the death toll would exceed 500. Fumino Goto, the home minister, told the cabinet 735 houses had been destroyed.

Help Yourself to Safety!

Unable to Drive? Call An Officer

What would you do if you didn't feel capable of driving your car home with safety?

In the past the answer may have been, "Get behind the wheel and take a chance with your life—and the lives of others."

Police Chief Floyd W. Howard has a better answer—call an officer and let him drive you home. Chief Howard today made public a new service which is part of the general campaign for greater safety on the highways. He pledged the service of his department in providing a free ride home for anyone who does not feel capable of piloting his own car.

Regardless of the time of day or night, just telephone for an officer. He will deliver you to your front door.

The offer made today by Chief Howard is directly in line with a campaign to decrease the number of automobile accidents in Santa Ana. The alarming increase in the number of traffic accidents in the city over last year's total for the same period has convinced Chief Howard that something must be done. He is particularly anxious that motorists observe the various traffic regulations and, above all else, avoid taking unnecessary chances.

The drive for safety, which starts today, is to be a permanent institution. It is not just a safety week or safety month, but it is intended to be lasting. Pledges have been drawn up, and citizens of Santa Ana will be asked to sign them. Many of the pledges will be distributed among the school children who will be asked to take them to their homes for the signatures of their parents. Others will be distributed among the service clubs and various civic organizations. Officers will carry pledges with them, and ask the people on their beats to sign.

After the pledges have been signed, they will be filed in the police department of records. Following is the pledge which Chief Howard is asking citizens of Santa Ana to sign:

"I, _____, a citizen of Santa Ana, Orange county, California, anxious that my city be known as a city of safe drivers, anxious that the ever increasing number of traffic accidents in Santa Ana be decreased to a minimum; anxious that every degree of safety be given to the children of Santa Ana, do hereby pledge that I will at all times drive my car in a careful manner, being observant of all traffic rules and regulations.

"I further agree to do everything in my power to promote safety and prevent accidents resulting from negligence or lack of proper caution.

"In signing this pledge, I realize the responsibility I owe my fellow citizens and to the welfare of the city itself."

ANAHEIM MAN ENDS LIFE

Louis Bushard Is Found Dead by Wife; Was Sad Over Health

Louis Bushard, 59, Orange county rancher and former real estate operator, was found dead in his home at 215 South Kroeger street, Anaheim, at 7:30 p. m. yesterday by his wife, Mrs. Josephine Bushard, upon her return from Pomona. During the past four years, Mr. Bushard had been in poor health, and sometime yesterday afternoon he assertedly ended his life by taking poison.

Mrs. Bushard had spent the day in Pomona with friends visiting the tri-counties fair. Soon after finding her husband's body, she discovered a note addressed to her, indicating that her husband had taken his own life.

Mr. Bushard, who had been a resident of Anaheim for 20 years, was well known throughout the county. Besides his widow, he leaves three sons, Joseph and Francis Bushard, Los Angeles, and Earl Bushard, Anaheim. The body was removed to the Backs-Terry and Campbell mortuary in Anaheim, pending funeral arrangements. Coroner Earl Abbey announced there will be no inquest.

AWAIT VERDICT IN MARINE ROW

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 27. (AP)—Federal Arbitrator M. C. Sloss announced today he would be unable to decide "hot" cargo issues between waterfront employers and longshoremen until "some time tomorrow."

While disputants awaited the ruling, 11 ships were strike-bound along the waterfront here and additions to the list appeared probable. Employers' spokesmen said 1300 longshoremen are on the "disqualified" roster for refusal to work the disputed cargo.

McAdoo's Nose Damaged In Auto Crash

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27. (AP)—U. S. Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, injured in a traffic accident, was "resting comfortably" at Good Samaritan hospital today.

The 71-year-old democratic leader sustained a fractured nose, a bruised chest and a fractured left wrist yesterday when his automobile crashed into a utility pole after he had swerved to avoid colliding with another machine that ran through a stop signal at Third street and New Hampshire avenue.

"Probably also will have to cancel arrangements that were underway for me to introduce the President at San Diego," he said. Notified of the senator's accident, his 26-year-old bride immediately visited him at the hospital, but returned to their home for the night upon assurance he was not seriously injured. Senator McAdoo said the mishap occurred as he was driving west on Third street alone and another automobile, disregarding a boulevard stop, entered the intersection from New Hampshire, traveling south.

President's Visit After Speech in L. A. Hoped For in Santa Ana

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 27. (AP)—President Roosevelt's gesture towards reconciling factional differences among Kentucky Democrats on the eve of the state gubernatorial election met with a setback today.

Thomas S. Rhea, of Russellville, defeated by Lieutenant Gov. A. B. (Happy) Chandler for the nomination as governor in the Democratic runoff primary, declined to meet the President today aboard his special train at Cincinnati.

In a sharply worded reply to an invitation from M. H. McIntyre, the President's secretary, for a conference with the President, Gov. Ruby Laffoon and Chandler, Rhea said: "I am very much grieved not to be able to comply with any request of the President, however, in declining this invitation I feel justified by reason of the fact because of representation made to the White House by one Robert W. Bingham, you (McIntyre) and others concerning the situation in Kentucky and my friendship and that of Governor Laffoon for the President the doors of the White House have been closed to me and my friends for the past several months."

"And this notwithstanding both you and President General Farley knew and Mr. Farley has publicly stated it was through my word and influence Kentucky instructed for the President in his race for the Democratic nomination in 1932."

It is not my desire to break down or lower the barriers thus raised against me at the White House, but I assure you there is no individual or groups of persons, whether Democrats or chronic (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 5)

WHOLEN'S SON SAFE AT HOME

NEW YORK, Sept. 27. (AP)—The offices of Grover A. Whalen, whose 14-year-old namesake son was the object of a search in Dobbs Ferry, N. Y., today, announced at 4:25 p. m. today that the boy had returned safely to his home after a mishap in the woods.

Mr. Whalen's secretary said Mrs. Whalen told her over the telephone of her son's return. "Grover was walking in the woods," the secretary said, "when he fell down and hurt himself. He was stunned, and on regaining consciousness he walked back to his home."

McAdoo's Nose Damaged In Auto Crash

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27. (AP)—U. S. Senator William Gibbs McAdoo, injured in a traffic accident, was "resting comfortably" at Good Samaritan hospital today.

The 71-year-old democratic leader sustained a fractured nose, a bruised chest and a fractured left wrist yesterday when his automobile crashed into a utility pole after he had swerved to avoid colliding with another machine that ran through a stop signal at Third street and New Hampshire avenue.

Swerving to the right of the other automobile to avert a collision, his machine crashed into the light pole.

Senator McAdoo said a man approached as he sat dazed on the running board of his car and asked, "Senator, do you want a drink?"

As the stranger left, another man, also apparently aware of his identity, warned Senator McAdoo, "I wouldn't take that drink if I were you."

Senator McAdoo said that it was not until receiving this caution that he realized the implications of the first man's unaccepted offer.

PLANE CRASH KILLS THREE

Bodies of Woman and Two Men Charred; Not Identified

SHERIDAN, Wyo., Sept. 27. (AP)—The wreckage of a red monoplane, containing the charred and mangled bodies of two men and a woman, was discovered 60 miles north of here today.

The plane had crashed in the rugged Passaic badlands. The bodies were not identified. The plane apparently clipped a tree near the famous "O" ranch of the late John B. Kendrick, former United States senator.

Saw Ship Fall
Search for the plane was started yesterday after residents of the sparsely populated region had reported seeing a ship fall, not far from the famous "O" ranch of the late John B. Kendrick, former United States senator.

Sheriff W. T. Harwood discovered the wrecked ship.

Bumped Into Hill
Teh plane apparently clipped a low hill with one wing, Harwood said, and then flew about two miles farther before crashing. Bits of wreckage were found scattered along the ground all the way from the hillside to the site of the wreckage.

A key ring found near the body of one of the men bore the number 10332X and the legend "if found near Sheridan, Wyo., today Denver."

PLANE IDENTIFIED BY COMPANY OFFICIAL
TULSA, Okla., Sept. 27. (AP)—The wrecked plane which was found near Sheridan, Wyo., today apparently was that of the Manning and Terry Drilling Co., W. E. Cobb, accountant in the company's offices here, said after reading a description of the ship.

Cobb said that E. D. Dildine, Denver, was the company's pilot. (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 4)

ISSUE LOSES HERE BY 271 BALLOTS

Only 26 Per Cent Vote Cast; Majority of Two-thirds Needed

BOARD PLANS ACTION

Three Members See But One Course to Take; Safety Foremost

Erect temporary "shacks"—get the children out of the unsafe buildings—tear down those buildings and build permanent structures by imposing a direct tax.

That seemed to be the only answer the Santa Ana board of education had today as a result of the defeat yesterday of a $180,000 bond issue which had been proposed for completing the high school building program.

Three members of the board of education today said they could see no other way out of the situation resulting from defeat of the bonds at the election, by a vote of 2523 to 1669. Several of the officials recalled that the "shack" alternative had been explained carefully to the voters before the election.

Only 26 Per Cent Vote
Only 26 per cent of the registered voters went to the polls yesterday. With a registration of 16,200 in the high school district, the total vote cast was 4209. The bonds failed by 271 votes to gain the two-thirds majority necessary for their passage. Approximately 12,000 voters failed to express themselves.

The largest number of votes cast was recorded at the Roosevelt school where the total was 585. At this polling place the yes vote was 335 and the no vote was 246. The largest yes vote, however, was tallied at the Jefferson school, where the score was 354 to 208.

At the Paularino school the voters made some sort of record by blanketing the bond proposal under a thumbs down vote of 19 to 0.

"Get the Children Out"
"We must get the children out of the old buildings at the high school plant right away," Rolla Hays, board member, said today, recalling that the state has branded them unsafe from another major earthquake.

"Building temporary structures and raising the building tax to pay for permanent ones is the only answer I know of. The people were advised before the election as to what the actual situation is, and were informed that this was the only feasible alternative."

George Wells, chairman of the board of education, said: "During our campaign we repeatedly called the attention of the community to various alternatives in the event the bond election was not approved, and inasmuch as we now know the sentiment, I feel sure the board will fall back on one of alternatives even though it might entail temporary cost and certainly eventually much more cost than the plan of procedure under the bond election."

"Grave Problem"
"As I view the situation, I realize the board is indeed faced with the grave problem of providing safe and comfortable facilities for our children at all times, and realizing the present unstable conditions of the old high school buildings, some action will be taken. I am sure that our board would have been criticised in the future if we had not given an opportunity to the community to decide on this building program at this time on account of the willingness and desire of the federal government to (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 3)

INSANITY—A legal loophole to escape punishment for the confessed poison slaying of his aunt and uncle—was the plea being prepared today for Leroy Drake, 19, junior college "genius," by Attorney Nathan Freedman.

An indictment charging Drake with two counts of first degree murder was returned by the county grand jury today shortly after he appeared and told of poisoning his aunt and uncle and rolling their bodies off an ocean pier last Saturday in an automobile.

As police gathered the last of a network of evidence involving the frail youth in the deaths of elderly Mr. and Mrs. Henry Steinheuer, Attorney Freedman announced insanity would be offered as a defense against impending prosecution for murder.

"I'll Take My Medicine"
In jail, young Drake had cried, "I'll take my medicine and plead guilty in court," as he divulged a shocking story of killing his relatives, who had cared for him since babyhood, with poisoned coffee, driving the bodies to the harbor and hurling the death car into the ocean from a pier last Saturday.

The automobile was raised yesterday from 35 feet of water, after Drake had taken officers to the (Please Turn to Page 2, Col. 2)

Slayer of Aunt, Uncle Seeks Insanity Excuse As Legal Loophole

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27. (AP)—Insanity—a legal loophole to escape punishment for the confessed poison slaying of his aunt and uncle—was the plea being prepared today for Leroy Drake, 19, junior college "genius," by Attorney Nathan Freedman.

An indictment charging Drake with two counts of first degree murder was returned by the county grand jury today shortly after he appeared and told of poisoning his aunt and uncle and rolling their bodies off an ocean pier last Saturday in an automobile.

SCION OF THEATRICAL 'FIRST FAMILY' BELIEVED BURNED TO DEATH

SMALL HOUSE DESTROYED BY BLAZE

William A. Brady, 35, is Victim; Carelessness With Smoking Hinted

COLT'S NECK, N. J., Sept. 27. (AP)—The charred body of a man found in the firewrecked ruins of a summer bungalow was believed identified today as that of William A. Brady, jr., 35, scion of a theatrical "first family."

Charles Tate, county detective chief, said circumstances removed any doubt of the identity, even though the body was burned beyond recognition.

The three-room cottage, which burned yesterday afternoon, was owned by Miss Elise Chisholm, associated with Mr. Brady in a summer stock company. He had obtained her permission to spend the night there.

Unfired Gun Found

In the ruins detectives found a scorched revolver, its chambers filled with shells which the heat had exploded. Detective Tate said the gun was not cocked and had not been fired.

A bottle lay in the twisted bed-springs, but it was so melted by the heat that Detective Tate could not tell what it had contained.

He said he had learned that Mr. Brady twice had been involved in fires caused by neglect of lighted cigarettes, once in a New York theater and once in an Allenhurst summer home.

Wife Collapses

Mr. Brady's mother, Grace George, cancelled her Broadway performance of "Kind Lady" last night, and his wife, Katherine Alexander, collapsed on a Hollywood film set. His stepfather, Alice Brady, also was in Hollywood.

His father, whose active career as a theatrical producer has extended from 1888 to the present, was believed in seclusion. The elder Brady, in ill health, recently returned from Maine to begin plans for a fall production.

The son, himself a producer of note, spent the summer at the New Jersey shore, where he and Miss Chisholm were associated in the management of the Casino Players at Deal. Miss Chisholm had gone to New York before the fire.

scene and divers had relieved the machine of its grisly burden. When authorities discovered two wills executed by the couple, stuffed behind a radio in their home, revealing Drake as sole beneficiary to a $12,900 estate in the event of both their deaths, the youth admitted, Capt. F. S. Stone said, "that might have been an angle in the case."

But in other statements quoted by police, Drake declared his motive for the double slaying was to "end the worry of my uncle and aunt over the mess I got myself into." He referred to his conviction and probation resulting from his arrest on a charge of stealing an automobile.

To probation officers last Wednesday, only hours before he confessed to police, he had declared, "if I am granted probation, I promise with God's help never to do anything which will involve me in trouble."

Autopsies were under way today, but the coroner's office reported these would not be completed for several days, with an inquest probably deferred until Monday or Tuesday.

Sunday School Picnic

In a re-enactment of the "dinner table poisoning," the curly haired youth revealed strange mental attitudes to detectives. A Sunday school leader, he said he played a violin at one time to distract himself from thought of his deed. He asked for a Bible to keep with him in his cell. He said the disposal of the bodies occurred to him as a result of remembering a fiction plot.

His fiancée, Miss Veola Hayden, Long Beach dietitian, recalled the demeanor appeared unworried and complacent as he escorted her on "dates" during the week preceding discovery of the slayings.

The youth's three brothers are in the east; Leonard, 17, living with his father, Leroy Drake, 88, in Washington, D. C., and Francis, 15, residing with his grandmother, Mrs. Louise Drake, Raritan, N. J.

WALNUT PACT DRAWS FIRE AT HEARING

BERKELEY, Sept. 27. (AP)—Curtailed of walnut production and marketing was bitterly assailed and stoutly defended at final hearings on the proposed AAA agreement yesterday.

Walter Rothchild, president of the Rosenberg Bros. Packing company, an independent, branded the agreement "unconstitutional" and declared the independents stood for "absolutely unlimited marketing rights" for 1935.

In defense of the restrictions, Carl Loos, attorney for the California Walnut Growers association, said this year's crop will be approximately 200,000 tons in excess of last year.

"If the entire crop is thrown on the market without restriction," he asserted, "general demoralization of the industry will result. Prices will drop way down under pressure of cut-throat competition."

Transcripts of the testimony will be transmitted to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, and the new agreement announced next week.

almost match funds raised by local districts."

Mr. Wells thanked the individuals and organizations who worked for the bonds and expressed his regret that they did not carry. He said he felt sure the board will consider the problem at its Monday night meeting, and whatever action is taken will be with the welfare and safety of school children and employees in mind.

"We still hold ourselves directly responsible for what might happen to the children in case of another major earthquake disaster," said Dr. Margaret Baker, another board member. "The board as a whole will have to decide what to do now," she said.

Meeting Monday Night

A meeting of the board is scheduled for next Monday night. It is probable that the board at that time will consider the next step to be taken as a result of the defeat of the bonds.

Ridley C. Smith, also a member of the board, was in Santa Monica today and could not be reached for a statement of his position.

"I don't know of anything else we can do but build temporary structures and then replace them with permanent ones by raising the building tax," said M. B. Youel, member of the board. "The board has the best interests of the people at heart. The alternative was explained before the election."

Sees Higher Tax

Mr. Youel called attention to the fact that passage of the bonds would have resulted in a 6-cent increase in the tax rate, but that if the new buildings are erected with direct tax money, the rate undoubtedly will have to be higher than six cents.

The program for which the bonds were proposed contemplated replacing two old buildings at the high school plant, the administration building and the one in which the domestic science classes are housed. It also provided for construction of a shop building at the high school and an auditorium at the Julia Lathrop Junior High school.

The Public Works administration had been requested for a grant of $148,000 to complete the financing of the program, but no definite answer to the application has been received.

TWO NEW CLASSES TO BE OFFERED AT Y. M. C. A. HERE

Through the cooperation of the adult education department of the city schools, two new classes will be offered at the Santa Ana Y. M. C. A., beginning next week.

Public speaking and chairmanship will be taught by R. C. Smedley, Y. M. C. A. secretary and founder of the Toastmasters club, who is an experienced teacher of the art of speech. The course will include training in the organization of clubs, conduct of meetings and the general business of parliamentary practice, as well as training in the elements of public speaking.

Under the direction of Dudley Page Harper, the men's chorus will resume work next Wednesday. This class is open to all men who like to sing, Secretary Smedley said.

The courses will be open to the public without charge.

ROOSEVELT STOPS IN OHIO FOR GREETINGS

EN ROUTE WITH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT TO THE PACIFIC COAST, Sept. 27. (AP)—In jovial spirits, President Roosevelt said "hello" to the folks of Ohio today as he traveled westward, with an afternoon talk scheduled aboard the train on the vital Kentucky state election of this fall.

He appeared on the rear platform at the first stop, Chillicothe, and exchanged informal greetings with the crowd.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27. (AP)—Plans were being pushed today for the reception of President and Mrs. Roosevelt, who will arrive here early Tuesday, after dedicating Boulder dam on Monday.

Col. Edmund W. Starling, chief of the White House detail of the secret service, arrived yesterday with several men, and today they were going over the route the President will follow from the time

9 PROJECTS GIVEN PWA APPROVAL

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27. (AP)—PWA today announced allotment of $11,024,337 to finance 147 projects in California having an overall cost of $20,255,731. The President has approved them all.

The allotments were included in the $200,000,000 list chosen by the President Wednesday from a much larger list of projects submitted to him by Secretary Ickes, PWA administrator.

The allotments still must be passed upon by Comptroller General McCarl, who is charged, with determining whether the projects comply with the $4,850,000,000 works appropriation law.

The list of projects included the following:

Anaheim school, $61,537; Santa Ana school, $32,727; Fullerton school, $192,273; Eureka school, $52,466 and $86,727; Placerville school, $139,909; Fullerton school, $51,869; Los Angeles school, $14,715; Santa Ana storm drain for Orange county flood control district, $878,196, and $13,927; Laguna Beach sewers, $20,481, and $44,764.

LOCAL FISHERMEN CATCH 51 TUNA ON TRIP TO BANKS

One of the largest catches of fish ever brought in by other than commercial fishing craft was brought in Wednesday by a group of Santa Ana sportsmen. The party returned to Santa Ana with 51 tuna ranging in size from 12 to 28 pounds, and two bonita sharks.

The party made the trip to the tuna banks off La Jolla and returned late Wednesday.

One of the party, Ben Martin, is reported as having had a thrilling battle with a six-foot marlin shark caught on light tackle. After fighting for sometime the fish broke the tackle and escaped.

Members of the party from Santa Ana were John Martell, Harold Brown, Ben Osterman, William Lorenz, M. Patton, Carl Edgar, Floyd Martin, Ben Martin, William White and Arthur Angle.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 27. (AP)—Sweden's two most famous women met for the first time this summer when Greta Garbo was one of the pilgrims to Selma Lagerlof's famous home, Marbacka, in Vermanland.

POSTMASTERS ARE GUESTS AT CHICKEN DINNER, MEETING

Members of the Orange county Postmasters association were guests last night of Mrs. Florence Knouse, postmistress of Westminster. A chicken dinner, served in the social hall of the Westminster Presbyterian church, was followed by addresses by three postoffice officials from Los Angeles.

The speakers on the program were Assistant Los Angeles Postmaster Homer Anderson, Superintendent of Mails Harry Stresley and Assistant Superintendent of Mails William Riley. Mrs. Knouse was assisted last night by Postmaster Ed Houston, Huntington Beach.

Linz, the third largest town in Austria, is famous for its examples of Baroque architecture.

Ordinarily Miss Garbo does not go visiting when on vacations here, but while in Vermanland she also called on Mimi Pollock, a comrade from the early stage and film days in Stockholm. Her travelling companions were Count and Countess Wachtmeister.

POPE PLEADS FOR PEACE IN SPEECH

Pontiff Makes Radio Address to World From Residence

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy, Sept. 27. (AP)—Pope Pius delivered a fervent plea for peace last night in a radio message to the American Eucharistic congress at Cleveland, Ohio.

The pontiff joined in prayers with the American congress, he explained, in "order to deprecate the unspeakable material and moral havoc of wars and their dire aftermath of tears and sorrow."

The Pope implored for "that peace so much desired by all—peace to those who are near and peace to those who are far."

He said he desired to join the prayers of the Cleveland gathering in order to "supplicate at least for a less intolerable burden for the life of a world worn to exhaustion by the ravages of the great depression."

The Pope's voice trembled when he spoke of peace. Standing beside him in his summer residence here was Monsignor Joseph Hurley of Cleveland, who is American attaché at the Vatican.

Monsignor Hurley aided in the translation of the speech into English.

Although the sun is apparently the largest and brightest star, it is actually almost the smallest and faintest of those visible to the naked eye.

PUBLICITY'S LIGHT TURNED BY NAZIS ON GERMAN ARMY

BERLIN, Sept. 27. (AP)—The completeness of the secrecy distinguishing the first Nazi rearmament steps now characterizes the publicity given certain aspects of the German military forces.

Whole shelves and display windows of almost every Berlin bookstore are filled with volumes on soldiering. Publications use thousands of words to tell about maneuvers of quasi-military groups like the brown shirts.

Pictures are numerous of army, navy, and air corps heads. Large posters are offered for sale showing the various kinds of uniforms—a subject that a few months ago baffled native Germans.

One publishing firm has a new series of 52 textbooks for recruits, reserve forces, and laymen dealing with subjects like military transportation, sanitation, communication, camouflage, engineering and gas defense.

Magazines are increasing their circulation by accounts of anti-aircraft measures, how soldiers live, soldiers' songs, requirements for military service, and the like.

HUNGARY'S PLAINS FURNISH MOUNTS

BUDAPEST, Sept. 27. (AP)—The prospect of war in Ethiopia has brought prosperity to certain industries and regions of Hungary.

Italian scouts ascertained that Hungarian horses bred on the hot southeastern plains were able to withstand the African climate and bought large numbers of them.

Italy also purchased virtually the entire output of the Pecs coal mines and coke works. These mines attracted wide attention last year when workers, by a spectacular hunger strike underground, obtained pay increases.

Hungary also is supplying leather and tobacco for the Italian forces in Ethiopia.

CATTLE SHORTAGE "MYTH"
DENVER, Sept. 27. (AP)—F. E. Mallin, secretary of the American National Livestock association, said today reports of a cattle shortage are a "myth." "Reports from many sections of the West indicate that cattle marketings this fall are going to be heavier than had been originally anticipated," he said.

VETS TO MARCH IN S.D. FAIR

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 27.—In the red glow of hundreds of flaming torches, several thousand American Legion members will march through the tree-lined avenues of America's exposition in one of the most spectacular features of American Legion days, Oct. 5 and 6, at the fair here.

The big night parade, scheduled to take place at 7 p. m. Oct. 5, is only one of more than a score of impressive features that have been arranged for the celebration. All of the Legion marching units, more than 75 in number, will participate.

Another highlight of the celebration will be the annual state competition of drill teams, bands and rifle and drum corps. Already, 56 entries have been received for the various competitions which annually draw a crowd of from 25,000 to 30,000 persons.

Among the participants will be many of the outstanding groups in the state. Drill teams will represent auxiliaries in Long Beach, Huntington Park, Los Angeles, Huntington Beach, Stockton, Maywood and other cities. Interest for the post members will center in drum and bugle competitions. Seven bands have been entered in the competitions, but more than 15 are expected to attend the special celebration, though they do not enter.

Memorial services, which will close the celebration at 7:30 p. m. Oct. 6, are expected to be the most impressive ever staged in the west.

'Y' ASSISTS 60 GIRLS IN YEAR

During the past year, 60 girls in Santa Ana have been helped with their individual, family and community relationships through the Y. W. C. A., it was reported today.

"If one girl has thus been saved from taking the wrong path in life," Miss Mabel McFadden, president of the YW, said in reviewing the accomplishments of the last year, "then I am sure that the parents of any girl will readily recognize that it was worth the entire amount which the community is subscribing to the Community Chest."

"This is but one of the services of the Y. W. C. A.," said Miss Mary Howard, general secretary, "for during the past year we have reached the lives of 1178 girls with constructive activities which will help to fit them for life's responsibilities." Total attendance at various meetings during the year was 15,639.

The Y. W. C. A., operating organized groups of girls throughout the city, also maintains club rooms and recreation facilities for girls and business women and is one of the seven agencies financed through the Community Chest.

HARD HEARTED BRITISHERS MEET

LONDON, Sept. 27. (AP)—Lock the doors and keep those women out. "The Black Hearts of Simla" are in London.

Born amidst the hills of the summer headquarters of the Indian empire, the "Most Hospitable Order of the knights of the black heart" is probably the most exclusive society of women haters in the world. After 45 years existence there still are only a few score members, mostly government officials.

When the members meet they wear evening dress with black silk breeches, a red silk cape with black velvet collar, and a large black heart suspended by a scarlet ribbon around the neck.

When they dine, the doors of the banquet hall are locked and bolted—for it would never do if a woman should stray into this group.

Originally bachelorhood was essential for membership. Now "grass widowers" also may join.

MAYOR WINS FIGHT ON CO-EDUCATION

PEIPING, Sept. 27. (AP)—Co-education in local high schools is to become a thing of the past in this city, but by easy stages.

And only after a bitter dispute between Peiping's moralistic mayor, Yuan Liang, and a union of private middle schools who opposed his efforts to deprive them of their girl students.

A compromise provides the schools will accept no new girl students, but allows those they now have to graduate.

Mayor Yuan has no objection to co-education in primary schools or in universities, but believes that girls and boys should not study and play together during adolescence. He has established special schools for the girls.

A price of 100,000 pounds was once placed on the head of Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, "father of the Chinese republic."

Right-of-way purchase money is turned over to county supervisors to spend as necessary, or as they see fit. The government has or exercises no control over this money.

Is this the reason the Supervisors encourage the People to assume this huge additional tax burden? Even in the face of the fact that there is no certainty of getting water, right-of-way valuation estimates are in many instances so high as to be out of reason.

HINT ENGLAND TO ABANDON NAVY PACT

LONDON, Sept. 27. (AP)—The United States today asked formally for a clarification of British views on holding an international naval conference before the end of this year, as required under the Washington naval treaty of 1922.

A conference between American diplomats and foreign office officials on the subject of such a parley followed close on the heels of British press reports that the British government soon would advise the United States it was terminating the Washington treaty.

This report, however, was emphatically denied in official quarters. Ray Atherton, counselor of the United States embassy, accompanied by Capt. Walter Anderson, the United States naval attaché, called on R. L. Craigie, the head of the foreign office and an expert on naval matters.

They asked of him what the British government view might be on the form which must be taken by the mandatory conference.

Plan New Program
An authoritative source today stated the belief that Great Britain soon will launch a new naval construction program, kept strictly within the limitations of the Washington treaty of 1922, however.

Said one foreign office official: "There is no truth whatever in the report that a note will be sent or is contemplated."

Another authority stated it was most unlikely that the cabinet had discussed naval increases at its recent meeting, although there was no guarantee that parliament would not consider the matter when it reconvenes late in October.

Bingham Makes Visit
Ambassador Robert W. Bingham visited the foreign office Wednesday, but there was no indication that he talked about naval matters.

Because of economy and disarmament efforts, critics of the government say it has allowed the British navy to run down far below authorized treaty limitations. From some quarters has come the allegation that the navy is inadequate at the present time for proper empire and home defense.

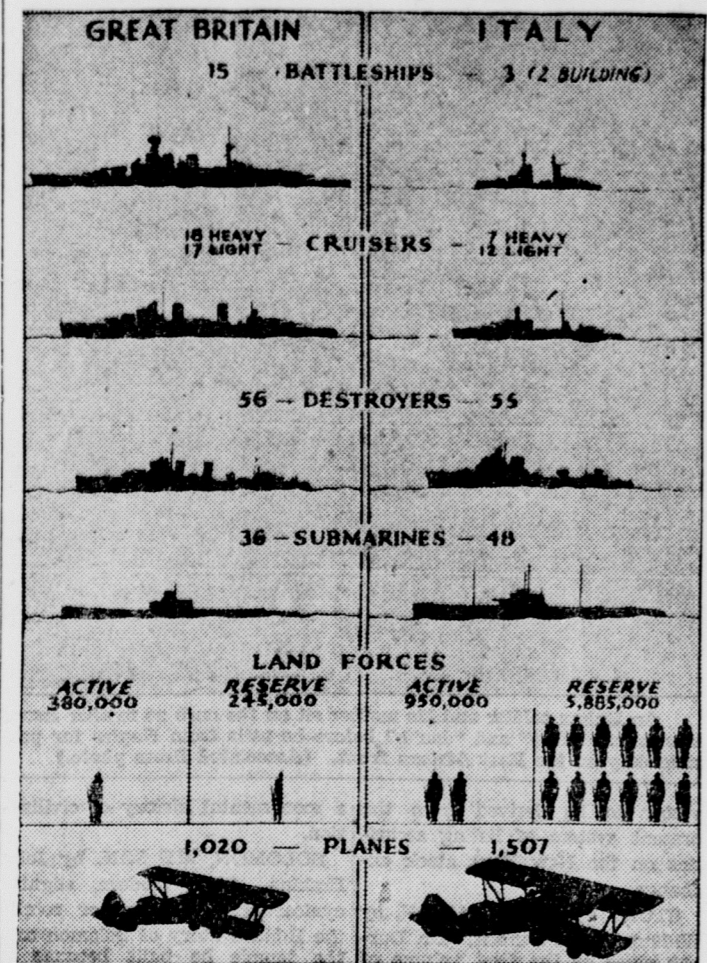

Cells All Look Alike to This Michigan Man

JACKSON, Mich., Sept. 27. (AP)—"Where do you look in?" Capt. Fred Boucher asked a bewildered convict at the southern Michigan prison.

"I dunno," came the reply. "All these cells look alike to me."

The prisoner produced his handkerchief, bearing his number, and the prison directory solved the "lost" problem.

How Britain, Italy Match Up

This chart shows the land, sea and air forces at the disposal of Italy and Great Britain, whose naval strength has been massed in the Mediterranean sea as a result of the Italo-Ethiopian crisis. Italy's peacetime army of about 250,000 has been increased because of possible war. Each soldier in the chart represents 500,000 men. (Associated Press Photo)

DAMAGE DONE BY FLOOD OF 1916 STILL BEING FIXED

Repair Work Yet Being Done After Nearly Twenty Years by Farmers in Western Orange County; Special Plow Aids Grower Paul Plavan

The work of repairing damage caused by the 1916 flood in Orange county is still going on today. After nearly 20 years some farmers in the western part of the county are still trying to restore to production land which was ravaged by the rushing currents.

Hundreds of acres of rich farm land on both sides of the Santa Ana river were covered with deep layers of pure sand dropped by the flood which covered the property with water to a depth of three to four feet.

Special Plow for Land
Paul Plavan, bean grower, has developed a special plow to restore his damaged land to productivity. The plow digs down to a depth of nearly four feet, and is designed to pick up the good soil and bring it to the surface to cover the sand. The plow is pulled by three 60-horsepower tractors. The process costs $40 per acre.

Other ranchers in the same region also have been doing deep plowing to rehabilitate damaged land. Part of the farm area, however, was covered so deeply that it never will raise anything but sparse brush. Erosion channels cut by the flood are still visible like scars across the country.

Damage Totaled $1,833,500
Gerald Price of the county road department has made a detailed study of Orange county flood damage and has found that the damage to agricultural land in the 1916 flood amounted to $1,833,500. His report shows that 53,500 acres of land were inundated, most of which were under intensive cultivation.

The flood damaged 1150 acres beyond economical reclamation, while productivity of 7200 acres more was reduced one-third. All of the inundated area required at least moderate leveling and debris removal. Mr. Price's report says, "Soil erosion, particularly in the upper flooded regions, was particularly severe," the report continues. "A survey has indicated that the 1916 flood waters cut approximately 167 miles of channels through productive agricultural lands. The channels averaged about 150 feet wide and almost four feet deep, with several over 300 feet wide and nine feet deep. In order that crop irrigation might be facilitated, many miles of channels have been filled, yet the worst have remained these 19 years—untouched."

Highways Damaged
In addition to the damage to farm land the flood damaged highways to the extent of $81,500. Five bridges washed out, causing an undetermined loss through interruption for three weeks. Public utility service was interrupted or cut off. Huntington Beach was without gas for nine days. The Orange-Santa Ana gas mains went out with the Chapman street bridge. Temporary service was restored through use of a fire hose.

Four lives were lost, two when a dwelling was undermined and broken up. One person was swept from a highway and was lost. A fourth life was taken when a light wagon was overturned by force of the flood waters.

Even though you have nothing on hand but tiny scraps of wool, you can fashion this lovely afghan. And the wool may be of different weights. How Counties In State Got Their Names

The story of how California counties derived their names is an interesting part of the history of the Golden State. Believing that the thousands of tourists who annually motor over the state's great highway system would like to know how the counties they visit came by their names, Director of Public Works Earl L. Kelly has had prepared from state records a series of brief stories of the origin and meaning of the names of the counties of California, including a few salient facts about each county.

GLENN COUNTY

Created March 11, 1891. This county was formed out of the northern portion of Colusa county, and derived its name from Dr. Hugh J. Glenn who, during his lifetime, was the largest wheat farmer in the state, and a man of prominence in political and commercial life in California.

Practically every commercial farm product grown in California can be successfully produced in Glenn county. Alfalfa is one of the major crops, yielding from five to six tons per acre with five cuttings, and the acreage is increasing steadily due to the never-failing demand for dairy products. Glenn is one of the leading counties in dairying in the Sacramento valley.

A large portion of the beautiful California national forest and the Orland project of the United States bureau of reclamation are in this county. The Orland project, of which the city of Orland is the business and geographical center, is the only government irrigation project lying wholly within California. It comprises 20,750 acres, with 146 miles of canals and laterals, 92 miles of which are concrete lined.

One of the largest irrigation districts west of the Rockies is the Glenn-Colusa. Its construction and later improvement entailed a cost of approximately $6,000,000.

Great bands of sheep roam the foothill and mountain ranges, and this section produces some of the earliest and best lambs in the state. In western Glenn are deposits of copper, manganese, sandstone and soapstone. During the World war, large quantities of chromite swelled the country's mineral production. Population, 10,935. Area, 1337 square miles.

U. S. C. ANNOUNCES TWO FREE PUBLIC RELIGIOUS FORUMS

Two free public lecture forums bringing to the community outstanding faculty members and educational leaders are to be sponsored during the 1935-1936 school year by the school of philosophy and the school of religion of the University of Southern California in Los Angeles. It has been announced by President R. B. von Klein Smid.

"Life Puts the Question" is to be the prevailing theme of the two free religious forums which will consist of weekly lectures to be held each Monday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock in the Mudd Memorial hall of philosophy, Exposition and University avenues, on the Trojan campus. Dr. Carl S. Knopf of U. S. C. will open the series Sept. 30, speaking on "Can Anyone Translate the Bible?"

The 11th semi-annual philosophy forum will center around "Contributions of Philosophy to Prevailing Ideas" and will meet each Tuesday afternoon at the same time and place. "Relation of Philosophy to the Man on the Street" is the opening lecture to be given by Dr. Wilbur Long, associate professor of philosophy at U. S. C.

Temporary service was restored through use of a fire hose. Four lives were lost, two when a dwelling was undermined and broken up. One person was swept from a highway and was lost. A fourth life was taken when a light wagon was overturned by force of the flood waters.

RUSSIAN RAILWAY HAS ELECTRICITY

MURMANSK, U. S. S. R., Sept. 27. (AP)—Electrification of the first section of the Kirov railway, connecting this ice free Arctic port with a rich hinterland, is nearing completion.

The first section of 72 miles runs from Kandalaksha to Kirovsk via Apatity. The second section, from Apatity to Murmansk, will be electrified in 1936 and the work will be completed in 1937 on the 105 miles from Kanralaksha to Loukhy.

The project is part of the second five-year plan which contemplates electrification of 3,100 miles of the Soviet Union's railways.

Houses here, it is reported, will begin in October to ship cattle to fill the first of Italy's orders for 2,000 tons of meat a month for her Ethiopian expedition.

They asked of him what the British government view might be on the form which must be taken by the mandatory conference.

An authoritative source today stated the belief that Great Britain soon will launch a new naval construction program, kept strictly within the limitations of the Washington treaty of 1922, however.

The plow digs down to a depth of nearly four feet, and is designed to pick up the good soil and bring it to the surface to cover the sand. The plow is pulled by three 60-horsepower tractors. The process costs $40 per acre.

Other ranchers in the same region also have been doing deep plowing to rehabilitate damaged land. Part of the farm area, however, was covered so deeply that it never will raise anything but sparse brush. Erosion channels cut by the flood are still visible like scars across the country.

Damage Totaled $1,833,500
Gerald Price of the county road department has made a detailed study of Orange county flood damage and has found that the damage to agricultural land in the 1916 flood amounted to $1,833,500. His report shows that 53,500 acres of land were inundated, most of which were under intensive cultivation.

The flood damaged 1150 acres beyond economical reclamation, while productivity of 7200 acres more was reduced one-third. All of the inundated area required at least moderate leveling and debris removal. Mr. Price's report says, "Soil erosion, particularly in the upper flooded regions, was particularly severe," the report continues. "A survey has indicated that the 1916 flood waters cut approximately 167 miles of channels through productive agricultural lands. The channels averaged about 150 feet wide and almost four feet deep, with several over 300 feet wide and nine feet deep. In order that crop irrigation might be facilitated, many miles of channels have been filled, yet the worst have remained these 19 years—untouched."

Highways Damaged
In addition to the damage to farm land the flood damaged highways to the extent of $81,500. Five bridges washed out, causing an undetermined loss through interruption for three weeks. Public utility service was interrupted or cut off. Huntington Beach was without gas for nine days. The Orange-Santa Ana gas mains went out with the Chapman street bridge. Temporary service was restored through use of a fire hose.

Four lives were lost, two when a dwelling was undermined and broken up. One person was swept from a highway and was lost. A fourth life was taken when a light wagon was overturned by force of the flood waters.

Even though you have nothing on hand but tiny scraps of wool, you can fashion this lovely afghan. And the wool may be of different weights. Each block—4½ inches square—can be done in different colors. And what a jeweled effect you have when done! It does indeed look like a colorful oriental tapestry. Doing each block in different colors, too, makes the work more fascinating for each is an adventure. Besides an afghan you can make lovely pillow tops or chair sets. Can't you see what a lovely and inexpensive Christmas gift these would be?

In pattern 5439 you will find complete instructions for making the afghan shown as well as pillow tops and chair sets; an illustration of the block and of the stitches needed; material requirements. WARD'S September Savings!

MURMANSK, U. S. S. R., Sept. 27. (AP)—Electrification of the first section of the Kirov railway, connecting this ice free Arctic port with a rich hinterland, is nearing completion.

The first section of 72 miles runs from Kandalaksha to Kirovsk via Apatity. The second section, from Apatity to Murmansk, will be electrified in 1936 and the work will be completed in 1937 on the 105 miles from Kanralaksha to Loukhy.

The project is part of the second five-year plan which contemplates electrification of 3,100 miles of the Soviet Union's railways.

Houses here, it is reported, will begin in October to ship cattle to fill the first of Italy's orders for 2,000 tons of meat a month for her Ethiopian expedition.

They asked of him what the British government view might be on the form which must be taken by the mandatory conference.

An authoritative source today stated the belief that Great Britain soon will launch a new naval construction program, kept strictly within the limitations of the Washington treaty of 1922, however.

Said one foreign office official: "There is no truth whatever in the report that a note will be sent or is contemplated."

Another authority stated it was most unlikely that the cabinet had discussed naval increases at its recent meeting, although there was no guarantee that parliament would not consider the matter when it reconvenes late in October.

Bingham Makes Visit
Ambassador Robert W. Bingham visited the foreign office Wednesday, but there was no indication that he talked about naval matters.

Because of economy and disarmament efforts, critics of the government say it has allowed the British navy to run down far below authorized treaty limitations. From some quarters has come the allegation that the navy is inadequate at the present time for proper empire and home defense.

The work of repairing damage caused by the 1916 flood in Orange county is still going on today. After nearly 20 years some farmers in the western part of the county are still trying to restore to production land which was ravaged by the rushing currents.

Hundreds of acres of rich farm land on both sides of the Santa Ana river were covered with deep layers of pure sand dropped by the flood which covered the property with water to a depth of three to four feet.

Special Plow for Land
Paul Plavan, bean grower, has developed a special plow to restore his damaged land to productivity. The plow digs down to a depth of nearly four feet, and is designed to pick up the good soil and bring it to the surface to cover the sand. The plow is pulled by three 60-horsepower tractors. The process costs $40 per acre.

DEMOCRATS TO RALLY OCT. 12

Another attempt to reunite Southern California Democrats under the party banner will be made Oct. 12 at San Bernardino when a tri-county barbecue will be held at the Orange show grounds.

Like the barbecue held last month at San Clemente the slogan will be "On With Roosevelt." At that gathering the guests were promised that Postmaster General James A. Farley would be present. Sponsors of the San Bernardino barbecue say "hope that President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who will be in California on that date, may be a guest is held by the executive committee, now in touch with the White House."

According to sponsors of the party, Senator William Gibbs McAdoo and State Senator Culbert Olson are certain to be present, together with several members of the Roosevelt party from Washington.

Orange and Riverside county Democrats have signified their intention of participating in the barbecue and tickets will be available in Santa Ana.

Entertainment will include a number of Hollywood motion picture stars as well as several acts of high class vaudeville, according to advance publicity of the event.

The law of England still requires that members of the Church of England attend divine service on Sunday.

Two Famous Prisoners Meet

The first meeting of Warren K. Billings (left) and Tom Mooney, the two famous prisoners of the 1916 preparedness day bombing, was highly charged with drama. Here they are seeing each other for the first time in 18 years as they awaited in San Francisco Mooney's hearing on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus. (Associated Press photo.)

LET'S READ A NEW BOOK!

Book Reviews from the Public Library

By VERA RAMSEY

MARY, QUEEN OF SCOTLAND AND THE ISLES, by Stefan Zweig.

Stefan Zweig has many admirers for his biographies. His "Marie Antoinette" is internationally famous. He presents the new book as a sister book to the famous earlier one.

The qualities of Mary's life with its mystery and secrecy is in itself appealing. The author says of her that she "had one great moment of passion. All the tragedy of Mary's life was packed into two years of great passion with Bothwell." Mary's long career was one long and acrimonious dispute with Elizabeth of whom Zweig gives an equally fascinating portrait. In the end it brought her to the block, but the reader my well wonder whether Mary's death scene was not also the scene of her greatest triumph.

Stefan Zweig presents Scotland's tragic queen with the same wise shifting of evidence, the same clear and dispassionate analysis of a strange and disturbing career as is found in the other biographies.

THE INQUISITOR, by Hugh Walpole.

Readers of "The Cathedral," "Harmer John" and "The Old Ladies" are already familiar with Walpole. In "The Inquisitor," Walpole returns to his cathedral town.

Elizabeth Furze, one of the characters in the book expresses herself about cathedral towns. "How quiet and peaceful they appeared with their chiming bells, their walled gardens, their Trenchards, their sweet old clergymen; but the past was alive in them, not dead as people supposed, and it was restless, jealous, and could be roused to fury if it were neglected." This could very well be taken as the theme for the novel.

There are many jealousies and undercurrents of unpleasantness in the action of this book. Most of them center around Stephen Furze, a very miserly, disagreeable person. In destroying him, many other townspeople are also sacrificed. There is an uprising of the unemployed, and tales of vengeance from the past. It all comes to violence and death, but the town is purged of its festering sores.

SCHOOL SHOWS BIG INCREASE

Boasting the largest enrollment in six years, St. Catherine's Military School, Anaheim, looks forward to a prosperous and progressive school year for 1935-1936.

An increase of nearly 35 per cent in the student body has necessitated the addition of new members to the staff and an expanded program in the construction of improvements.

The cadet corps under the direction of Lt. Charles A. Schmitt, 63rd Artillery USA, commandant, is preparing for its first public exhibition of the school year on Nov. 11 in the annual Orange county Armistice day parade. The corps hopes to extend its string of victories to 12.

With the large number of cadets now on the campus, the athletic department has high hopes for placing real representative teams on the field of competition in all the major sports. Paul Grover, athletic director the last four years, will be assisted by Robert Coleman, former football and basketball star at Loyola High school and university.

The moral and academic side of the cadets life is under the supervision of the Sisters of St. Dominic who established and have successfully operated the school for more than half a century. Today St. Catherine's ranks with the finest institutions of this type in Southern California.

MEMORIAL BUILDING TO HONOR SOLDIERS

PARIS, Sept. 27. (AP)—A memorial building, dedicated to American soldiers fallen in foreign campaigns, is to be constructed here by the Benjamin Franklin Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

The memorial will rise on the Place de l'Etoile, facing the Arc de Triomphe, under which France's Unknown Soldier rests. It will be formed by remodeling one of the imposing residences of uniform facade encircling the arch.

Dr. James Sparks of the post said the memorial was being financed privately and that the name of the donor of the funds would not be made known.

The structure will contain a chapel dedicated to soldiers killed in each of America's foreign campaigns.

During the Punic wars, the Lipari islands, north of Sicily, were a Carthaginian naval station.

MAKE WAGES OUT OF WASTE Goodwill Store Expanding

By ELLEN SNEBLEY

What makes wages out of waste and will move tomorrow? It's the same institution which has been attracting crowds to its store windows this week to see its display of quaint old-fashioned frocks'n frills—the Goodwill store at 411 West Fourth street.

Tonight, George Angne, new Orange county supervisor of Goodwill Industries, and his workers will move the store's stock to the large, new Goodwill location at 600 West Fourth street.

"Run in a Circle"
Discussing with Mr. Angne his plans for Goodwill's future, I gained some understanding of the ideals of the movement whose chief aim is to aid and make a place for the physically handicapped.

"We run in a circle," he told me. "Goodwill bags are distributed to all homes willing to have them. A worker in the employ of the company goes about collecting and emptying the bags."

"The proceeds, ranging all the way from a safety-pin through grandpa's beaver hat to automobile accessories and outworn washing machines, are sorted by other workers in the store. Then the work of cleaning, sanitizing and renovating each article is begun.

"On 'Opportunity' Wages
"All workers are on 'opportunity' wages. They may make $10 a week, or it may be less. Often, though, it means the difference between their having honest, happy work or being on the county charity rolls.

"The reconditioned articles are then available to all who wish to purchase cheaply what they need. Money which comes into the store is divided among utility expenses and the workers, on a strictly non-profit basis."

"Dr. George Warner and T. E. Stephenson are among Santa Ana men who have been active in sponsoring the Goodwill since its inception in Santa Ana some 10 years ago," Mr. Angne added.

"How many people are working in Goodwill in Santa Ana?" I asked him. The answer was 15.

"Nor are all out workers among the physically or socially handicapped. Miss Maxine Fowler, Santa Ana Junior college commercial art student, is so 'sold' on Goodwill that she contributes her services in doing placards and posters for use in the store," he said.

BUENA PARK starts celebrating tonight.

They're starting off their annual industrial celebration with a theater party, to which everyone is invited. They're going to announce the winner of a contest to choose a queen for the affair. Over a dozen girls are entered in the contest and there's a great deal of community interest in the race.

You've already heard about the big parade scheduled for tomorrow at 11 a. m. A carnival will be going full blast all Saturday afternoon and evening. Arch Raitt will officiate at a barbecue in the evening and a program is being given for kids.

But what sounds most interesting is the program of equestrian events. In one race, riders gallop from one end of the field to the other, where they've hung up "grab bags." In the bags are articles of women's clothing. The racers must put on the sundry garments offered, remount their steeds, if possible, and race back to the starting point. If the committee in charge uses any imagination, the finish should get lots of laughs.

Then there's a potato race, in which riders must spear potatoes from one box and deposit them in another, while going full speed. An egg race, with entrants carrying an egg in a spoon, and a horse version of "musical chairs" are also included in the list.

MERCHANTS of Capistrano and Doheny Park are vexed. In fact, they're more than vexed—they're irked, peeved and exasperated—about a new state law, which forces drivers to park their cars sideways to the curb, instead of just running in at any old angle.

People rushing through the towns who would ordinarily stop for a bowl of soup or a postage stamp or something, don't want to waste time backing-and-forwarding their machines into narrow spaces and so rush right on through their communities, they claim.

Several husbands are also reported up in arms about the law. The average of bent fenders when mama is driving the family car is much higher than when they were allowed to park at an angle, it's reported.

FULLERTON's junior chamber of commerce is planning a monthly meeting stag party tonight at the Whittier golf course.

They always have a good time at these affairs. Play golf and cards and other games and enjoy themselves generally.

An inquisitive reporter, trying to learn something about the program for tonight, finally discovered that Lloyd Verry is president and more or less in charge of the affair, with Bob McKelvey handling the program.

Having been informed that there wasn't to be any program, the inquisitive one became inquisitive—wondering what Bob would do about the program business.

"He'll probably furnish bread for the members to throw," was the enlightening response.

ADDS to our Dan'l Boone club: Dr. Paul Esslinger, Clarence Brown and Glenn Groover, Capistrano. They went to Red Bluff on a deer hunting trip and brought back three deer.

IF YOU'RE ever invited out to dinner at the new Veterans' CCC camp at El Toro, go prepared to eat.

They served a meal last night which would have done credit to the Waldorf-Astoria. Big, thick slices of ham. Candied sweet potatoes. Lots of other things, including cake and ice cream. And cigars after dinner. We're going back.

A FINE spirit is evident among men of the camp. They like, as well as respect, their officers.

Personally, we'd be in an awful fix at such a camp. We couldn't tell a lieutenant from a major—in fact, from appearances, we thought that Capt. Bill Thomas, in charge of the men, must be a general, at least.

Perhaps one reason for the excellent spirit is the recreation plan. A tennis court and baseball diamond, and lots of other things, including movies. Soon the camp will be almost entirely lawn, with lots and lots of trees. The buildings are well built and comfortable.

I'd better stop, or they'll be getting a bunch of boarders at the camp.

MINERAL SOCIETY PLANS TOUR

FULLERTON.—An all-day field trip planned for tomorrow and the October meeting Tuesday evening mark activities of the West Coast Mineral society for the coming week. It has been announced by A. C. Terrill, society official.

On Saturday's tour, visits will be made to outstanding geologic formations near Laguna Beach and Dana Point. Return will be by way of El Toro and Irvine.

State, National Heads Present; Menton in Feature Address

EL TORO.—Marking start of a 25,000-acre soil conservation program in Orange county, dedication services for the recently-completed El Toro Veterans' Civilian Conservation Corps camp were held at the camp site a mile north of here yesterday afternoon and evening.

Many national, state and government officials were present at the ceremony at which Assistant District Attorney William Menton gave the dedication speech.

Included in speakers at the ceremony were Major L. A. Walton, commander of the March Field district; George N. Whiting, who spoke on behalf of ranchers of the district; T. E. Stephenson, Santa Ana postmaster, who gave a historical outline of the district; H. E. Reddick, regional director in charge of soil conservation in California and Nevada, and Guerdon Ellis, superintendent, Cleveland National forest.

Following the dedicatory address, inspection of personnel was held by officers and buglers from the Santa Ana American Legion played "retreat" and "colors" as the flag was lowered.

Camp Ultra-Modern
The new camp, upon which work was completed yesterday, includes about 20 buildings and is being landscaped by veterans. A hospital, recreation building, mess hall, kitchen, officers' quarters and many others are included in the ultra-modern setup.

The program for this district will be centered around proper land use, according to Regional Director Reddick, with ranchers signing a five-year cooperative agreement with the soil conservationists. The local program will include re-vegetation of hilly areas through use of native grasses and shrubs, construction of ditches and check dams, and control of runoff in level areas through use of a hole-digging machine.

Mr. Reddick pointed out yesterday that much has already been done in the county in the way of conservation work, with practices recommended by the service already in use on many of the better ranches.

PWA Workers to Start
Fifty Public Works administration workers will start on the project next Tuesday, it was announced, with an additional 50 starting the next week. Within a short time 200 PWA workers will be on the job.

Visitors and men of the camp were served dinner in the mess hall of the camp following the exercises. Lieut. H. B. Crossley, Jr., was master of ceremonies. Included in visitors introduced were Sheriff Logan Jackson, Hugh Thomson of Villa Park and James Machlin, Huntington Beach, members of the county planning commission; Nat Neff, county highway superintendent; Supervisors W. C. Jerome and N. E. West, and others.

Men Introduced
Walter H. Bauer, camp superintendent, introduced Robert D. Perry, Hugh H. Miller, Floyd S. Taylor, Malcolm Hammond, Russell Johnson, Goodwin D. Chase, Harold D. Salisbury and Charles P. Musgrave, members of the executive staff at the camp.

Capt. William Thomas, army officer in charge of the men, received a hearty ovation when introduced, as did Mess Sergeant Wolfe, who was in charge of the dinner. Following the meal, men of the camp were entertained with moving pictures.

LAGUNA BEACH.—All that remains of Laguna's first bakery is an old brick oven, and that is now being torn down to make way for an automobile showroom.

The first oven was built about 21 years ago by Albert Wolfarth, first baker to open a shop in Laguna, on Forest avenue. Mr. Wolfarth served the town with his bakery products until the World war broke out. When he was forced to leave, about that time F. D. Pettis, owner of the property, had another oven built, and Kenneth Woods used it for a year, hiring Charles Covern to work for him.

Later, Mr. Covern rented the building and operated his own bakery for seven years. Until recently another bakery occupied the building.

Brick by brick the walls of the venerable oven are being lowered. It measured about 14 feet square, the walls about 18 inches thick, and stood 10 feet high. Before there was gas in Laguna, it was piped to burn oil; later gas was packed on top to keep the heat from escaping.

Countless thousands of loaves of bread, rolls, cakes and pastries have risen to showy elegance in the old oven, but soon all those yeasty memories will be buried in an ugly pile of bricks, forgotten.

SCHOOL STARTS LIONS CLUB TO WEEKLY PAPER

SAN JUAN CAPISTRANO.—Starting next Tuesday, San Juan Capistrano Union High school students will publish a weekly mimeographed newspaper. A name has not yet been chosen for the publication.

There will be aided in their work by a staff of 11 reporters, chosen from different classes.

This is the first time in the history of the school here that any attempt at teaching journalism has been made. This subject is in conjunction with the regular English course.

ORANGEROTARY HEARS TALK

ORANGE.—Judge Kenneth Morrison, Santa Ana, was speaker at the Rotary club meeting here yesterday, telling of experiences in the courtroom which show a lack of training of many boys and girls.

Although we may think we have no crime problem in Orange county, 22 boys were sent to Whittier State school from Santa Ana because one boy formed a gang and planned and directed a number of robberies, he said. He added that most trouble with young people is caused by a divided home.

We are examples for our children and influence them more than we realize, he said. Children are hero worshipers, and parents should be careful to set a proper example, he added.

J. B. Wilbur was program chairman of the day.

The derrick from the Dome No. 1 well, which was drilled on the Newland-Borchard lease on Hampshire boulevard, was moved by the Dome Oil company to the new site.

ORANGE.—The downtown paving program and improvement of Batavia street was assured yesterday when word was received that two federal grants totaling $18,900 were approved in Washington under the "farm to market" road program.

Acting City Engineer W. K. Hillyard announced that the government had allotted $12,100 as its share of the cost in resurfacing Glassell street, two blocks each way from the Plaza, and Chapman avenue one block east of the Plaza. The city will pay approximately $10,973 from state gasoline tax funds.

Batavia street will be improved from La Veta to Walnut street at a cost of $6800 to the government and $3122 to the city.

The present concrete base in the downtown section will be retained, with the old asphalt removed and a three-inch asphalt pavement applied. Plans are being rushed so that contracts may be awarded by Dec. 10, the government time limit. Work will not begin, however, until about January 1.

Early Struggle Over Water Was Between One Man and 275—Irvine Lost the Fight

Right now most everybody in Orange county is thinking of water. Way back into the early history of Orange county—or rather the territory then known only to the padres and the Mexicans—irrigation was practiced. Soon afterward the white man found he could use water from the Santa Ana. Then began the great drama which has extended to the present. The Journal in a series of articles, will picture the early day struggles, the successes and failures, that marked man's effort to make the desert bloom.—Editor.

By ROCH BRADSHAW

The chief struggle over the water in the Santiago creek was a contest of one man against 275 others. It ended in victory for the 275; and yet, like the battle over waters of the Santa Ana river, the opposing parties finally got together and agreed to a division of the stream which satisfied all.

The lone man in the contest was James Irvine, owner of the vast Irvine ranch. The 275 were ranchers who disputed his right to use water from the Santiago creek. On Aug. 31, 1894, they filed suit against him, seeking an injunction to restrain him from using Santiago creek water. The case is the now famous one known as William Bathgate versus James Irvine.

The complaint recalled that on July 1, 1873, the plaintiffs went to a spot known as Point of Rocks and diverted all the Santiago creek flow through ditches to their lands. The diversion was made on land belonging at that time to the late Jonathan Watson, Orange county's last 49er.

Built Submerged Dam
In order to further develop their irrigation supply, the plaintiffs said they built a submerged dam on Watson's land in 1879. They excavated the sand and gravel to bedrock, then filled up the hole with clay. By this means they sought to cause the water of the stream to rise to the surface so that a larger flow would reach their diversion ditches. They cemented and lined with clay the stream bed between the dam and the diversion point below, to prevent seepage.

The plaintiffs contended that all the flow of the stream was necessary for irrigation of their lands and for domestic use. They complained, however, that the dam and the diversion point below, to prevent seepage.

PAIR NABBED AS L. A. EXTORTION PLOT FOILED

LOS ANGELES.—Frustrating an alleged attempted extortion plot aimed at Dr. G. M. Sweeney, Los Angeles chiropractor, the district attorney's office early today announced the arrest of two women and a man.

Chief Investigator Blayney Matthews said the trio made a telephonic demand for $500. Following instructions of the district attorney's office, Matthews said, Dr. Sweeney placed a dummy package under a rock in front of a vacant house.

Thomas Glynn, 23, assertedly appeared and took the package. Together with Katherine Haywood, 26, and Elizabeth Barnes, 21, Glynn was held on suspicion of extortion.

BARRYMORE WANTS ONLY TO SEE HIS TWO CHILDREN

HOLLYWOOD.—Restless from his romantic odyssey that took him across the continent a jump or two ahead of Elaine Barrie, John Barrymore had two things in mind today—his children.

After attorneys had announced a property settlement between Barrymore and his wife, Dolores Costello, had been reached amicably, the 53-year-old actor reiterated, "until I see my children I haven't any plans at all. As soon as it is convenient with Mrs. Barrymore, I am sure I will be permitted to see them." The pair, John, 3, and Dolores, 5, are with their mother.

NEW WALNUT PACT FIXED IN WEST

California, Oregon and Washington Growers Approve Proposal

Walnut growers in California, Oregon and Washington representing more than 84 per cent of the industry have approved a proposed new market control plan now under discussion, A. J. McFadden, vice president of the California Walnut Growers association, said today.

The growers are chiefly in cooperative marketing organizations, he said.

Opponents of the new control plan are expected to express themselves at a meeting here next Monday at 2 p. m. in the Willard Junior high school auditorium, Mr. McFadden said.

There will be five similar meetings in the entire state.

During the last two years the walnut industry has been operating under a specialty crop agreement based on the Agricultural Adjustment act. This act was amended at the last session of congress to overcome objections on constitutional grounds. As a result it was necessary to develop a new agreement for the walnut industry, Mr. McFadden explained.

Hearings have been held at Portland, Ore., and at Berkeley, and of the cooperative marketing plan, Mr. McFadden said.

He explained that some independent packers believe that they can market to better advantage the decision, but modified it to rule that Mr. Irvine could not take water from the watershed for any purpose whatsoever.

In 1930 a dam was built on the Santiago creek by the Irvine Company, the Serrano Irrigation Company and the John T. Carpenter Water Company. Mr. Irvine furnished the site for the dam and the reservoir. In return, the water companies reached an agreement with him. The water concerns are to get the first 1000 acre feet which is conserved each year.

After that the supply is to be divided equally between the water companies and Irvine.

No restriction was placed upon Mr. Irvine's use of his share of the water. He may, if he wishes, take it outside the Santiago creek watershed.

With Louis Danz, noted musician, writer and lecturer as host, the Orange county chapter of the National Piano Teachers' guild met last evening in an Anaheim cafe to honor the national founder, Irel Allison, and his associate organizer, Jack Moates.

On report of Mr. Danz, Clarence Gustlin acted as chairman of the meeting, introducing the honor guest, Dr. Allison, who set forth the aims and ideals of the organization, whose specific objective is the holding of piano playing tournaments for students of tenured members. In these, the objectionable competitive aspects of the ordinary contest have been eliminated, and each performer, elementary or advanced, is judged entirely upon individual merit. Students are eligible to three honor rolls, district, state and national.

Following Mr. Allison's talk, the meeting was devoted to discussion of various problems affecting the private piano teacher. Prospective plans and policies of the local guild were also considered, and a definite decision reached to hold monthly meetings featuring outstanding speakers and musical programs. Thursday evening, Oct. 17, was agreed upon as the next dinner meeting date, at Anaheim.

Joseph W. Ogle, Santa Ana, was appointed chairman of a committee to investigate conditions relating to public school curricula and private music study.

The last week of January, 1936, was chosen for the local tournament.

360,000 HEAR POPE'S WORDS

CLEVELAND, Sept. 27. (AP)—Thousands of men and women streamed out of Cleveland today with a plea for peace by Pope Pius XI still ringing in their ears and a picture of a stirring religious spectacle bright in their memories.

Late yesterday as the seventh national Eucharistic congress drew to a close, they were part of what probably was the greatest crowd ever to assemble in downtown Cleveland.

A congregation of 110,000 men, women and children poured into the massive Cleveland stadium to hear the Pope's benediction. Outside the stadium and on streets leading down to the shore of Lake Erie where it stands were 250,000 more.

They saw a white silk canopy embroidered with gold carried out of public hall. Under the canopy was Patrick Cardinal Hayes, the Pope's representative at the congress. Cardinal Hayes, in vestments of gold cloth, carried the Eucharist to the stadium.

The hushed audience watched as the rosary was recited, as various litanies were said. There were prayers and hymns. Cardinal Hayes placed the monstrance he held upon the altar. An announcer gave the time and 110,000 men, women and children dropped to their knees. Over a loudspeaker came the Pope's voice from Castle Gandolfo.

When the Pope had finished, Cardinal Hayes walked from the altar. His departure ended the congress.

FLEET TO HAVE MANEUVERS

SAN PEDRO, Sept. 27. (AP)—The vast fighting force of approximately 100 ships of the United States fleet will put to sea Monday under secret orders from the local and San Diego bases for four days of "tactical exercises."

Admiral Joseph M. Reeves, commander-in-chief of the fleet, in issuing the orders for all units to participate in the secret problem, announced no civilians would be allowed aboard any of the ships while the maneuvers were being held.

Heretofore, Admiral Reeves has permitted newspapermen and photographers to accompany the fleet on tactical exercises and gunnery practice.

The announcement of the proposed four-day absence of the ships came as a surprise, the original schedules calling for continuation of gunnery practice all of next week. High-ranking officers of the fleet declined to comment on the order. They denied, however, that it was planned in connection with the visit here next week of President Roosevelt.

HARRY K. THAW IS ILL IN QUEBEC

QUEBEC, Sept. 27. (AP)—Harry K. Thaw, central figure in New York's most famous murder case of the early 20th century, was in a Quebec hospital today suffering from a severe attack of grippe.

Doctors at the Hotel Dieu hospital reported his condition unchanged today and the 61-year-old former husband of Evelyn Nesbitt, who shot and killed Stanford White in 1906, was said to be in no immediate danger.

STATE OFFICE FOR CITY TO BE STUDIED

Santa Ana Branch May Be Established by Tax Department

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 27. (AP)—Elwood Squires, assistant secretary of the board of equalization, said today that the board probably will give consideration at its meeting Oct. 1 to a request for establishment of a branch office at Santa Ana.

Business interests of the Orange county city have petitioned the board for creation of a branch there to handle sales and liquor tax collections.

Squires said that while there had been some discussion of such a step, no comment had been made on the question of whether board officials favored it and he was unable to say what action might be taken.

"If such an office were created, it probably would be given the task of administering board matters in Orange county and sections of San Bernardino and Riverside counties," Squires said. "We probably would need a staff of several men there."

He said the board has a large record of business throughout the area, indicating that an office in Santa Ana might facilitate board business in that area.

The board already has branches in Southern California at Los Angeles, San Diego, San Bernardino and El Centro.

Mrs. E. E. Ulrich, lady assistant steward, Mrs. Eldon Fuller and pianist, Jack E. Gould. Executive board members are R. T. Allen, George E. Philippi and D. D. Field.

Reception Held in Home; Couple Will Live at Beach After Trip

White flowers bordering a large heart, white candles and a mixture of pink gladioli and blue delphinium transformed the First Methodist church bride's chapel into a bower of beauty last evening when at 8 o'clock Miss Eunice Bright, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Guy H. Bright, 1111 East First street, exchanged marriage vows with Wheeler Dossett of Anaheim, son of Mrs. Frank A. Boss of Hayward and William Dossett of Long Beach. The Rev. Walter Scott Buchanan officiated in the presence of 150 relatives and friends of the bridal couple.

Miss Bright was smartly frocked in navy blue novelty sheer with a taffeta lapel-collar and a jacket with widely flared sleeves. Her off-the-face hat was wide-brimmed and deep blue in color. She wore a corsage of gardenias.

Wears Pottery Shade
Miss Lucile Howell, maid of honor, wore a rust pottery frock in light-weight wool with gold buttons and brown accessories, and carried bronze pompon dahlias.

Miss Elisabeth Hurd, in green light-weight wool with gold accents and green accessories, and carrying yellow pompon dahlias, was bridesmaid.

Arthur Southstone of Gardena was best man. Earl Holderman and Charles Bright, brother of the bride, were ushers.

Before the ceremony Evelyn Hutton, pianist, accompanied Mrs. Frank Epp, who sang "Because" and "All For You."

Go To Mountains
After the rites, the two families and a few friends went to the Bright home for a reception in which the bride cut an elaborate wedding cake baked for her by Mrs. A. W. Rime.

The bride couple left late in the evening for a wedding trip to Forest Home. After next week they will be at home to their friends in Long Beach.

Mrs. Dossett is a graduate of Lathrop Junior high school, Santa Ana High school and Junior college, and is a member of Las Gitanis, Bridgettes and Tau Delta Phi.

Mr. Dossett is a graduate of Long Beach Polytechnic High school, a member of Kappa Alpha Pi fraternity, and is employed by Graham Brothers of Long Beach.

Mary Stoddard Necking Is Divine, Not Lewd, Says Reader in Defense of Those Who Like to Pet

By MARY STODDARD
There isn't any harm in necking. At least that's the contention that today's star contributor makes. Girls are warned from an early age to keep away from petting.

"Don't let a man kiss you good night until you're sure you love him," their mothers have told them. "Caresses and embraces aren't the basis for lasting love," youth leaders advise.

But here's a man who likes to love and be loved and if he didn't think enough of a girl to have a little affection, he wouldn't take her out. His letter follows:

The Thinkers

Wherein women of the community express their views on topics of particular interest to women.

Do you think a woman is justified in giving her child more attention than she gives her husband?

Mrs. Ed U. Farmer: I think it should be a 50-50 proposition with her. Today so many parents become jealous of their own children. A woman might well give her husband and her child each a little more attention—but according to their needs. It's a matter of balancing one's interests and giving to each the right type of attention and understanding.

Mrs. Franklin H. Mink: I think it should be a 50-50 proposition. The husband should cooperate in the training of the child, and share the responsibility of its behavior. Too many fathers take the view that child training is a job for the mother only.

Mrs. Wilbur J. Woods: I think a child should receive more attention from the mother, as she has more opportunity to give it more attention. In the nature of things, the mother, being in the home, and the father outside doing his work, the child will receive more training from the mother than from the father. The father should, however, assist as much in this as it is possible to do so.

Gardens Of Japan Are Discussed

Japanese gardens with their quaint dwarf shrubbery, their little bridges and general charm were discussed interestingly by Mrs. R. C. Carman at a meeting of the Santa Ana Woman's club garden section yesterday afternoon in the home of Mrs. W. M. Wells on Greenleaf street.

At the close of Mrs. Carman's talk, Mrs. Gean A. Short, section chairman, gave a most informative report of a Japanese woman's talk on flower arrangements, which she heard recently at Brea. Mrs. Short's talk was enhanced by the fact that she arranged different types of floral pieces for use on the tea table at which Mrs. Wells, assisted by her daughter, La Vonne, served a delicious tea late in the day.

After reporting Mrs. Akemi Togo's talk to the Brea Woman's club, Mrs. Short proceeded to display Chinese dolls and hand-stitched homespun trousers from China, and to explain the differing modes of dress in Japan and China.

The subject of outdoor living rooms is to be developed by the speaker at the garden section's next meeting, time and place of which will be announced later. Mrs. Short conducted a brief business session early in the afternoon.

KIDNAPER OF GIRL, 8, IS HUNTED

Venice Tot Is Released After Bold Snatch in Daylight Yesterday

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27. (AP)—Police today pressed a search for the kidnaper of a girl, 8, who was abducted yesterday in daylight and then released a few minutes later.

Shocked by her terrifying experience, but otherwise unharmed, the little school girl was resting today at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carpenter, in Venice, Los Angeles beach suburb. She told police a poorly-dressed man in a sedan drove up to the curb as she was walking from school and offered her a dime to deliver a message to a house a few doors down the street. As she reached for the coin, he pulled her into the machine and sped away.

Notified by two frightened school chums, police found the child abandoned near the city dump. She said the man thrust her out of the automobile there, made a movement to follow, but instead drove off.

MOST OF YOUNG L.A. MEN SINGLE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27. (AP)—Maybe it's due to the depression, or perhaps to Cupid's poor marksmanship but the fact remains that most of Los Angeles county's young men are unmarried.

A survey conducted by the National Youth administration showed today that 82 per cent of 23-year-old males and 70 per cent of 24-year-old males are still single.

On the other hand, from 40 to 50 per cent of the girls in the same age classifications have launched into matrimony. Two to 3 per cent are divorced.

Officials announced that 4000 high school and college students would be given jobs under the administration's program here.

BONDS FIGHT DROPPED BY WALLOP

Signing of Four-Point Pact Halts Campaign; Points Listed

William Wallop is no longer actively opposing the proposed bond issue for flood control and water conservation in Orange county. Mr. Wallop, who is superintendent of the Anaheim Union Water company and a member of the board of directors of the Orange county water district, said in an interview today that he has ceased working against the program, but that he has not given it his endorsement. The reason why he at first opposed the bonds was that the board of supervisors had not signed a four-point agreement with the two major water companies guaranteeing protection of water rights on the Santa Ana river in event of construction of a dam at the upper Prado site, Mr. Wallop said.

Board Signed Pact
The supervisors signed the pact Tuesday for the county water district, after conferences with the water companies. He had been delegates to seek to find the basis on which harmony could be achieved in respect of the water project. The four-point agreement was the answer. It also has been ratified

MORNING STAR

— BY MARIAN SIMS —

SYNOPSIS: Emily Felton has found her roommate, Judith Carroll, almost sufficient recompense for having had to go to Ardmore instead of Bryn Mawr. Judith can even outwit Frances Felton, Emily's managing mother, which is why Emily is at the Carroll plantation, with a new outfit bought under Judith's watchful eye, talking with Judith's fascinating brother, David. David is the opposite of careful, slow Edwin Barnes, who is Emily's only other admirer—and is, fortunately, far away.

Chapter Five DAVID—SERIOUS

"No," Emily suddenly said that the only way to interest him was to tell him the truth; to throw herself upon his mercy.

"It's just because I—look pretty tonight. And that's Judith's fault and not mine. As a rule I'm quite colorless. I don't even know how to enjoy living." Her voice was soft and a little plaintive.

David's lips were against her hair, now. They strayed softly down to the cheek and was turned away from him.

"I wish," he said very gently, "that I had a chance to teach you."

He slipped a hand beneath her chin and turned her face towards him. His promise of beauty had been fulfilled.

As he bent towards her she thought fleetingly of Edwin and his gentlemanly self-control, and a wraith of a smile lifted the corners of her mouth; thought of her mother's admonition about "holding one's self sacred for one's husband," and knew a moment of panic.

She drew away from him and looked squarely into his eyes.

"I don't even," she told him recklessly, "know how to kiss you. I've never kissed anyone but relatives in my life."

She had expected him to laugh. Or to scoff; because every other girl she knew had kissed someone. Instead he looked thoughtful.

"I believe you," he said at last. "And you don't know how glad I am that you haven't."

He kissed her then, very gently at first, and she was surprised that his lips should be so soft when his arms were so hard. She hadn't really thought of it before. She returned the kiss, simply, and felt his lips quicken upon hers.

"You precious, precious child," he murmured.

When the tumult and the shouting had died for the evening Judith made her way to David's room and perched herself upon his bed. She was clad in a pair of vivid Chinese pajamas and her eyes were dangerously bright.

CHILDREN TURN IN FALSE ALARM JUST TO WATCH ENGINES

Edison company high voltage wires yesterday assertedly caused a blaze in the top of a palm tree at 830 South Flower street. The fire department answered the call at 4 p. m., and had little difficulty in extinguishing the blaze. At 5:30 p. m. yesterday, trucks went to Second and Flower street in answer to an alarm turned in through the alarm box at that corner. Firemen learned that some children had turned in the alarm, apparently just to see the big trucks turn. There was no fire.

the apple of my eye and all that sort of thing, but I'll poison you if you break Emily's heart."

David looked squarely at her. "You're flattering me. In another minute you'll be telling me not to set fire to the state orphan asylum."

Judith helped herself to a cigarette from his bedside table. "Oh, I don't mean that you'd do it deliberately, darling; you never do."

"I just think you'll have to hide your fatal light under a bushel. You've already been making love to her, darn you!"

David's look didn't falter. "I'm not St. Francis, you know. If you didn't expect me to fall, why on earth did you bring her down here and push her into my arms?"

"I wish I knew," Judith confessed. "I was so interested in seeing what she'd do to you that I overlooked completely what you might do to her."

"Has it occurred to you that I might be serious?" David demanded.

Judith's eyes widened in mock amazement. "No. Why should it?"

He scowled at her, then grinned. "Damn your impudence! Get out before I throw you out."

"Not until you promise to be good."

His face softened. "I wouldn't hurt her," he said gently, "for anything in the world. At the rate I'm going, I'll be the one who needs protection soon."

Judith got up and laid her hands upon his shoulders. "It's a promise, then?"

He bent and kissed her. "It is." A noise, determined and incessant, dragged Emily from the warm depths of sleep. Someone was pounding on their door. Judith lifted a rumpled head and at that instant David's voice, raised in song, sifted through the door.

"Awake my soul, stretch every nerve—" he sang.

Judith snorted. "Do you have to make that noise?"

"I don't," came the voice. "Are you both carefully buried?"

"You didn't think, did you," Judith called back, "that we'd be doing our exercises?"

"Then," said the muffled voice, "I'm coming in."

The gasp of protest died on Emily's lips. David was already inside, leaning negligently against the foot of the bed. David, beautifully shaved and glowing, wearing the hunting shirt and the disreputable riding breeches. His smile was so gay and so utterly lacking in self-consciousness that she was suddenly ashamed of her horror.

"Shouting through that heavy door," he explained plaintively, "had all the privacy of a party telephone. I'd already acquired a large and interested audience. I was wondering if either or both of you lilies of the field would like to ride over the place with me this morning."

"I wouldn't," said Judith, "because I've sworn ever since Christmas that I was going to sleep until noon the first day I was at home. Emily might go."

He turned to her. "Will you?" Already she was learning to take things as they came with this astonishing family. "I'd love it."

He smiled his approval. "Stout fellow!" Then to Judith: "Is this craving for sleep real? Because I really wanted to take you."

Judith's eyes were warm. "You

Easy Way to Keep Furniture: $1 Down Every Time

darling. Yes, it's real. Take me this afternoon?"

"Gladly." He turned once more to Emily. "Will you breakfast at a John Bull or Hollywood?"

"Which is which?"

"Oh, Kippers and boaters and the like from the sideboard, or coffee and grapefruit in bed?"

She considered. "Since I haven't ridden in three months, perhaps I'd better begin to practice eating from the sideboard. Besides, I've never eaten a bloater."

David chuckled delightedly. "Neither have I. But if I can find a huckle pump, we'll have them. I'll give you 10 minutes," he said, as the door closed behind him.

Riding over Carrollton with David had all the glamor of a voyage of discovery. The sunlight was pure gold and the meadows were green velvet. All the hands stopped to talk, and

WOMEN LIQUOR BODY OF POST DEALERS HIT FINDS GRAVE

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 27. (AP)—Mrs. John Stearns Thayer, vice president of the Los Angeles District Federation of Women's clubs, is not sure women should ask for equal rights.

She points out that 2900 women in the state of California hold licenses to sell liquor.

"When you learn that 24 per cent of liquor licenses in the county of Los Angeles have been issued to women," said Mrs. Thayer in the federation's October bulletin available today, "you blush for your sex."

She also took issue with the practice of women patronizing establishments selling liquor.

"In the old days, when such establishments were openly called saloons, no self respecting women ever invaded them," she declared. "Today things are viewed differently. Have we progressed in our point of view, or are we going backward?"

David's interest was flattering and unflinching.

OKLAHOMA CITY, Sept. 27. (AP)—The body of Wiley Post, who was killed with Will Rogers Aug. 15 in an Alaskan plane crash, had found a permanent resting place today—a grave in memorial park cemetery here.

Funeral services were held here a week after the crash, and the body, until yesterday, lay in a mausoleum. Brief committal services were attended by Post's widow, his brothers and sisters, and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Post of Maysville.

RANKIN'S OPENS REMODELED FLOOR WITH STYLE SHOW

Santa Ana went big-time yesterday when Rankin's Department store threw open its remodeled second floor to reveal a swanky apparel section, modern to the last hand mirror.

The formal opening began at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon with a style show by mannequins from Los Angeles representing style establishments whose lines are carried by Rankin's. More than 300 spectators crowded the ready-to-wear section at both the afternoon and 7:30 p. m. clothes showing.

The rooms were banked with baskets of flowers, sent in compliment to the store by scores of friends. As each woman came to the evening show, she was presented with a rosebud. Many of the saleswomen had donned long hostess gowns for the occasion.

Playing incidental music, the Lyric String trio, composed of Audrey Granas, Beatrice Granas and Anna May Archer, accompanied the mannequins at the evening opening.

Spectators were enthusiastic in their acclaim of the new furnishings. The smooth, indirect lighting system, said to be the finest of any apparel section in the country, flooded the room in the evening. Block letters for each section of the floor were set off by the lighting background.

Presiding over the event were Herbert Rankin and J. H. Rankin, planners of the remodeling. New styles had been draped on the window models for the occasion, bringing the last note in fall clothes to attention of those who came to see the store.

With a background of smart modern finishings, the apparel section will continue to offer clothes in the modern price range, Herbert Rankin said. Although equipment facilities have been enhanced and smart styles restocked, prices will continue in the low scale, he declared.

Tennessee's automobile license plates next year will be designed against an outline of the state's map.

APPROVE AIR BASE FOR CALIFORNIA TO CHINA PLANE LINE

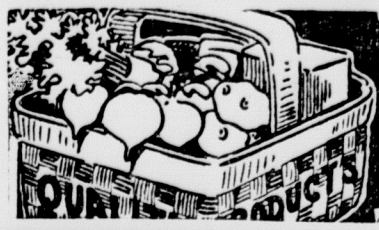

MANILA, P. I., Sept. 27. (AP)—The lame duck session of the Philippine senate today approved Pan-American airways petition for a franchise to develop an air base for a link in its California-to-China service. The action still needs approval of the house. Pan-American crews are in Manila ready to develop the base as soon as the franchise is granted.

'BROADWAY MELODY' ENDS RUN TONIGHT

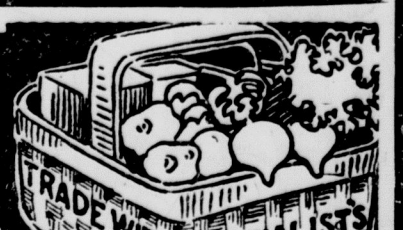

After a successful engagement of a week, "The Broadway Melody of 1936," music comedy, can be seen for the last times here tonight at the West Coast theater.

The picture stars the radio comedian, Jack Benny, who provides laughs with his wisecracks and comedy.

GOVERNMENT BY MINORITY

AGAIN we have government by minority. Again we invite the dictator. Popular government, it appears, is not worthy the name. The people do not appreciate its advantages, much as they cry for it.

Approximately 26 per cent of the voters entitled to participate in yesterday's school bond election, went to the polls. A very substantial majority of those who did vote, favored the bonds. The opposition probably voted their strength. An unofficial count said there were 1,669 of them. They were out early to say "no," as usual.

Two thousand, five hundred and twenty-three persons, community-minded, far-seeing and proud, voted for the bonds. Some 270 were needed to complete the two-thirds majority required. There were 16,200 persons entitled to vote. That leaves approximately 12,000 who were content to rock themselves to sleep and let the world go by; 12,000 who probably hoped the bonds would carry but were too indifferent to turn a hand; 12,000 who have no right to utter a word of protest about what happens henceforth; 12,000 who would cry to high heaven should the right of franchise be taken from them but 12,000 who by their own indifference, have proved they are not entitled to possess this sacred right of citizenship.

Seventy-five per cent of the voters, by staying at home, have in effect, told the board of education: "It's your problem; do as you please. We're not concerned over what happens. If the earthquake-damaged buildings aren't safe, let them fall down. Let the children perish. Anything is all right with us—just don't bother us about it."

The board, therefore, should feel at liberty to do anything it wishes to do. The people do not care.

Inasmuch as members of the board are held personally responsible for what happens, they are very foolish longer to take the risk of using the old buildings at the Santa Ana High school. The very first thing that ought to be done is to order every teacher and student to stay out of any and all buildings about which there is the slightest doubt.

Next, every one of these buildings which cannot be repaired to the satisfaction of building experts, should be torn down immediately.

Next, there should be a group of shacks, tents or other temporary structures erected. These should be used until permanent quarters can be erected by direct taxation. It is to be regretted that the budget-making period for next year has passed; otherwise the direct levy could be made now.

If the people will not think, if they will not vote, they must be made to pay the penalty therefor. A way had been provided to complete Santa Ana's school building program at a capital cost to the district of $180,000, instead of $328,000, the amount the district will now have to pay.

Sixteen hundred voters said they were against a saving of this character; 12,000 said they didn't care a whoop. The board should have free reign from now on. When there is a majority rule, there is popular government. When the majority fails or refuses to express itself, we usually have self-appointed governors. We curse the politicians, but should we?

12 BEST CALIFORNIA BOOKS

PROF. GEORGE STEWART, JR., of the University of California may have stirred up the animals by his irreverent way of handling some California literary idols in a talk to the California Historical society. But without agreeing with all that he said, we welcome his critical frankness in a field where sentimental over-praise has been the rule.

Joaquin Miller's work has failed to stand up, said Professor Stewart, and many another favorite of an earlier generation is omitted from his list of the 12 books that are most representative of California. Yet Professor Stewart would probably agree that school children will be reciting Miller's "Columbus" for many a year to come and that his is not an exclusive list.

Five recognized California classics—using that word generously for the output of a state which is less than a century old—appear on Professor Stewart's list. Almost nobody will quarrel with his selection of "Two Years Before the Mast," some of Bret Harte's stories, Mark Twain's "Roughing It," and two novels by Frank Norris—"McTeague" and "The Octopus."

By selecting Robert Louis Stevenson's "Silverado Squatters" for his list and also as the Stevenson writing most likely to survive, Professor Stewart is echoing the judgment of England's Frank Swinnerton, who singled out this description of a stay on Mt. St. Helena above the Napa valley for praise in an otherwise devastating essay on Stevenson. Professor Stewart uses up five places on his list for personal memoirs of life in early California, more valuable to the historian than to the general reader, and for a 12th place he selects Mary Austin's "Land of Little Rain," an account of life on the California desert of which neither literary critics nor Californians can complain.

It is with Professor Stewart's omissions that one can quarrel most easily. How about Stevenson's "The Wrecker," and one or two of Jack London's, including his account of his youth on the Oakland waterfront in "John Barleycorn"? And what an outcry there will be from the older generation because Helen Hunt Jackson's "Ramona" is ignored! As for living writers, Professor Stewart has saved himself a heap of trouble by barring them arbitrarily from his list.

Whimsies of O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Thoughts while strolling: Nothing gives a letter an air of importance like a sealing wax monogram. Fannie Kilbourne, who authors the "Dot and Will" stories. Memory: The tasseled buggy whip that was always carried into the church vestibule. How many can identify Mrs. Paul Wilson?

O. O. McIntyre

The hurrying editor—Edwin Balmer. If Ward Morehouse isn't scurrying Talullah Bankhead he's scurrying Max Hopkins some place, the lucky stiff. The Danville, Ky., lady who made New York tea-room conscious. There's Worthington Grant. Add literary joys: The Old Farmer's Almanac.

Look alike: William Faversham and Major Raymond Dickson. Tullio Carminati looks dressed up like most men would like to but don't. Graeme Lorimer, the editor's son and goin' places writing.

Sime's red haired widow, Hattie. Beloved of Broadway. Grand name for the menu's dessert list: Carmel Snow. Nothing seems so out of place on the avenue as a bird dog. Arthur Brisbane has the complexion of a 16-year-old. If anyone brings vaudeville back, it will be Major Bowes.

If Jack Wheeler isn't smiling he looks as though he might be tuning up to cry. Free fun for a dull day: Watching the penguins at the Aquarium. If Esquire could catch that fellow's guffaw at one of their pictures they'd have a swell ad. I love to write the first name of Vyvyan, Donner. A chirographic oopsie daisy!

The first hotel in the metropolis to install an elevator was The Grand, now a moderately priced inn along the Broadway 30's. It was long a haunt of wide-hatted western politicians. Bryan stopped there, as did Sockless Jerry Simpson and Gen. Coxey.

Probably no journalistic figure has been the peg for so many legends as James Gordon Bennett, of the Herald. Many figments of fancy, but a number founded on fact. He was in ways the greatest news beagler—seeing the story from afar long before the pack got into full cry. He was restless, sometimes eccentric, always dynamic. When he swung into action his staff often fell at their desks exhausted, but he knew how to play. His formidable rival, Joseph Pulitzer, once said: "I wish I had his capacity to frolic." Bennett was cordially hated and by the same token cordially liked, and most executives who labored at his side revere him. He had no managing editor. The highest title was city editor—Bennett was always managing editor. And how!

I saw Bennett but once during my formative days in the big town. He had arrived on one of those surprise visits from his exile in Paris—visits that so often meant nothing but struck terror among the staff. He was entering the famous triangular building with the coping of blinking green-eyed owls in Herald Square. Only a fleeting glimpse, but the impression was of Arctic dignity, such as Gladstone's. Also, maybe imagination, there was the suggestion of ruthlessness. A Tory with hereditary contempt for cloth caps.

In that era Charles Chapin was the fabled ogre of the Evening World—a reputed monster with a tuppity manner and thin high voice, but who swallowed seasoned reporters raw and hekkled cubs until they rushed in panic to other vocations. Yet his illustrious alumni—Cobb, Albert Payson Terhune, Roy McCardell, Bob Edgren, Bosman Bulger, etc.—swore by him.

The cap, so long associated with gangstering, dock wallpopping and pool room loafing, is becoming refined and is shown in the fall and winter ensembles of those dark timbered, indirectly lighted salons of the chapeaux. A specialist who fashions them out of imported cloth at the $12 per individual fit has a salon niched in one of the swank towers. Fat men or those of short stature should not wear caps, the stylists say. Billy Gaxton, as might be expected, is an accomplished capist. Dwight Fiske sports one with rakish aplomb, as do Harold Vanderbilt, George M. Cohan and William Goadby Loew. Two other well known cap wearers are John D. Rockefeller, sr., and Joe Laurie, jr.

Wild animal life on the avenue: Buddy De Sylva's wife Marie fled from Catalina, whither she had gone for a rest, on account of the rapish barks of sea lions. To get far away she crossed the continent to New York and took quarters on the avenue. That is for a night or so until the sea lions in the park zoo put on their Wagnerian special. She is now studying maps of the Sahara.

The Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Sept. 27.—During the behind-the-scenes cat-and-dog fight which led to the soft coal strike, there was only one point on which the coal operators definitely agreed.

That was to dump the dispute, if possible, into the lap of the President.

On nearly everything else they disagreed among themselves almost as much as they disagreed with the miners on their demand for a wage increase of approximately 50 cents per day.

One faction chiefly Kentucky and West Virginia operators—refused to consider any wage increase at all. To every proposal they replied with a grim "no."

Another faction was willing to grant the miners' demands without reservation.

A third faction—and the largest—also was willing to grant the demands, but with one important reservation. It proposed shutting down the mines for four weeks, during which the 39,000,000 tons of coal now in reserve would be used up.

"And how will the miners live during that time?" demanded John L. Lewis, square-jawed head of the United Mine Workers. "They can't live on air. Will you pay them during the enforced lay-off?"

The operators said they would not. So that ended that.

PRESIDENTIAL HOT SPOT

THUS the conflict raged between the operators, until finally one of them conceived the idea of abandoning their civil war and turning the heat on the President.

Some of them were sore at Roosevelt anyway—chiefly because he had intervened in their dispute through his assistant secretary of labor, Edward McGraw. This latter group secretly wanted a strike in order to get rid of their surplus coal supplies.

So they proposed to their fellow coal moguls that, inasmuch as the President had "stuck his nose into our business," they dump the red-hot potato in his lap. They proposed calling on him publicly to arbitrate the controversy.

It is admirably opposed to arbitration. It contends there is nothing to arbitrate, that the issue is clear-cut and simple—that either the miners get a 10 per cent wage increase or they do not.

Any arbitration by the President, therefore, meant the alienation of the United Mine Workers. One of the most powerful unions in the country, it has been most friendly to the administration.

The coal barons, of course, knew this. But as one of them gleefully put it:

"Let's not skin off our shins. Let Roosevelt worry about that."

SUCH IS FAME

FRIENDS of Brain Trusters Tom Corcoran and Ben Cohen are telling this story on the two inseparable companions.

Calling at the Rural Resettlement administration, Corcoran was told by a young lady assistant that the official he wanted to see was busy.

"He'll be through in a few minutes," she said. "Won't you have a seat, Mr. Cohen?"

"Thank you, but I am not Mr. Cohen."

"You are not?" said the secretary. "That's funny. I always see you and Mr. Corcoran together."

There were a total of 410 students enrolled at the Santa Ana High school today. There were 157 freshmen who entered high school, and this morning the boys were given a coat of iodine by the upper classmen. The campus resembled a redman's reservation, but the fun was all good natured.

Many Orange county women were awarded prizes last night in a contest to determine their ability in making home products. The contest was a part of the Orange street fair. One Man's Opinion

By Duncan Ellsworth Clark

EDITOR'S NOTE—Here is an informative, analytical daily feature on current topics. The opinions expressed in this column do not necessarily agree with those held by The Journal.

War These Days Moves On Oil

MUSSOLINI is buying a million barrels of California oil. More proof of impending war, say the dismal screamers who wag their heads in joyful despair. These very preparations for war, the difficulties and expense of it all, should convince alarmists and the Italian people of the hopelessness of such final action.

It Duce has been parading his whole military strength. This studied attempt at display is enough to show his weakness, the self-admitted weakness which tries to whistle in the dark. Hundreds of bombing planes, floating fortresses and bristling tanks—all of the moving apparatus of war consume appalling amounts of fuel.

NAPOLEON said that a soldier's most necessary equipment is a good pair of boots. The next best piece is an extra pair of boots. And the next, an extra pair of soles. Wellington remarked that an army moves on its belly. But these days all military and naval forces move on petroleum.

A modern battleship, in full movement, consumes a thousand barrels of oil a day. Mussolini's vaunted planes could not keep aloft for a single attack without constant streams of fuel. His submarines would be worse than useless unless he has access to the world's supply of petroleum. So with his battleships, and his lumbering tanks, and all his mobile equipment. And the startling fact is that Italy has no large oil deposits, and Britain has a close hand on the sea lanes leading to foreign supplies.

In order to accommodate those uncertain pedestrians at Fourth and Main, Patrolman Nicholson suggests an automatic escalator. When the bell rings the escalator starts and you are carried across irrespective of your own inclination or initiative. Well, if this is to be an age of automatics let's get going.

Guess they don't have fire prevention week in Italy. Mussolini is burning all the bridges.

Thirst parlor entrances yesterday offered the same resistance the bank doors do before 10 o'clock a. m. Those habitués who are so accustomed to daily calls encountered unexpected opposition. The "election day" sign explained the situation, but at that it wasn't satisfactory.

Two invitations to go fishing. Two prompt and emphatic refusals. The only way I have ever been able to get any satisfaction out of a fishing trip is when they bring 'em to me.

Some place noticed a slogan which advised "treating your credit as a sacred trust." That fellow has a different angle than many of us, who regard credits as installment obligations, or a profanation. However, it's a dual arrangement—sometimes you can't get along without it, and sometimes with it.

Conversed with Walter Collins about when to expect the Elks chimes to start their message of memory to the absent brothers, and he said the committee was collecting information, and the next step would be to collect money. He then stepped as suddenly as it started. However, I'll never be satisfied until the other fellow spends his money so I can hear the chimes. Got a longing to hear 'em NOW. Maybe the boys won't be able to reach me where I'm going.

Tried to locate the source of a story yesterday, and when the alleged origin was consulted he got the story from another fellow who said some one else told him, and about that time some one offered to buy my lunch, so I let the story go to you, wouldn't you?

Automobile manufacturers are making a showing of the new 1936 models. When they start giving them away I'll try and crowd myself into the receiving line.

An educated rat? Or just inquisitive? One of the rodent specie, sex defined by the very nature of the exploration, entered a cash register in a certain business house and started to check up the receipts preparatory to a shopping tour. It was a busy day. The keys kept clicking, clerks kept jumping, and customers feet were elevated. An employee launched a counter attack with an ice pick. The rat was not interested in a stick-up, so out from his hiding place, around the counter, and the fight ended in the ignominious death of the invader. You know a rat can put more action into a bunch of customers than a pep leader at a football game.

The gas bill and the electric bill came today through the same mail. If the statements could have been inclosed in one envelope the public utilities could have saved two cents postage, and if they hadn't sent the bills at all I now have had $3.63 more than I now have.

Applications for street intersection recognition will be respected in the order received. For this service automobile transportation must be provided, and other prerequisites will be imposed to conform to distance, justification for publicity, and a minimum of nauséum. I am sure that I have a limit to my daily preambulating coverage, so be sure that you have something unusual to offer before requesting mention in this department for the particular intersection on which your business is being operated.

Milan Miller sends me word via Ed. Cochems that the Breakfast Club is to have a steak bake next Tuesday at the Edward Hall ranch, and will I be there. Now, will I be there? Just back an automobile up to my front door and ask me to get in. They can take me for a ride anytime a steak bake is on the fire.

When I ask Brick Gaines, our county editor, if he lives here or there he says "yes," so I take him to go to Fullerton. Now do not draw any nasty conclusion. Over at, in or near Fullerton, Ray Humphrey says O. L. Willets brings in an oil well, and the reason I seek information is that the aforesaid Willets has interests around Tempepton, Calif., where Walter Fine and a few other Santa Ana citizens known to me personally, have land, and if Willets can get an oil well at Fullerton, Fine et al want him to get one—or more—at Tempepton. The picture completed indicates the interest in Gaines is purely material, but not necessarily unfriendly.
